Calling all Dangerous Dads and Muddy Mums with children all ages. Come along to a great day out in Torpoint and Saltash this half-term to learn some bushcraft skills, go on a nature hunt, learn about photography, make water-powered rockets, build a den and loads more. The events are free.

Forest School leader and Dangerous Dads Co-ordinator, Ian Blackwell, said: 'We're bringing some of our hugely popular 'Dangerous Dads' and 'Muddy Mums' activities to the area this half-term and we are inviting everyone of all ages to come along. People will be spotting wildlife and mini-beasts, learning how to take great photos, doing some 'Silly Science' experiments, making shelters and learning some bushcraft skills. No booking is required – just pop along on the day and stay as long as you like. It's open to everyone – children aged under 12 need to be accompanied by an adult. Bring a picnic too.'

This event is in partnership with Positive People. Positive People is funded by the Big Lottery Fund and European Social Fund.
