

On Tuesday, 9 February 2021, we will celebrate the 18th edition of Safer Internet Day with actions taking place right across the globe.

To support this day, Devon & Cornwall Police has created these short information slides to offer you advice and information to help stay safe online.

Safer
Internet
Day

COVID-19 has changed the 'norm' for everyone. With much of our lives now online, it is important to protect ourselves from the different risks that come from spending more of our time in a digital environment. Luckily, online programs have given opportunities for education to continue throughout COVID, but this also means that you are more vulnerable to online risks than before.

It is so important, if you are worried about something, or see or experience something online that concerns you, speak to someone you trust as soon as possible. Don't suffer in silence.

There are lots of information and advice available on our website for you.

More information

Online programs have given opportunities for education to continue throughout COVID, but this also means that young people are more vulnerable to online risks than before.

It is important to have regular conversations about staying safe online and to encourage young people to speak to you if they come across something worrying online.

The resources below provide guidance and support for parents and carers on how to talk to your child about a range of online safety issues, as well as set up home filtering and age-appropriate parental controls on digital devices:

Provides resources for parents/carers and children of all ages to help keep children safe online

Childnet has developed guidance for parents and carers to begin a conversation about online safety, as well as guidance on keeping under-fives safe online.

National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children (NSPCC) has guidance for parents and carers to help keep children safe online

UK Safer Internet Centre provides tips and advice for parents and carers to keep children safe online - you can also report any harmful content found online through the UK Safer Internet Centre

What is sexting?

Sexting is when you use your phone to send sexy pictures or videos.

You might think that sexting is just a harmless way to flirt or show your boyfriend or girlfriend that you're into them, but once you hit send on that message you lose control. There is no way to get your pictures and messages back. Maybe the person you sent it to will delete it, but what if they don't?

Is sexting illegal?

Sending, owning, or taking naked or sexual pictures of someone under 18 (called a minor) is illegal, even if you both said it was ok.

What do I do if I have sent or received a picture?

Sent a picture: Don't panic! If you have sent a picture and it gets out of hand, talk an adult you trust. It is OK to ask for help.

Received a picture: Don't send or show it to anybody and delete it straight away.

Remember - it's NEVER okay to share or post someone else's private photos or texts, even if you're in a fight or you don't like them. This is a cruel form of bullying and sexual harassment, and it can really hurt people.

More information

What is cyber bullying?

Bullying is behaviour that hurts someone else. Cyber bullying is bullying that takes place online. Unfortunately, with the majority of learning now being online, bullying can follow people wherever they go, via social networks, gaming and mobile phone.

When should I report bullying to the police?

Many incidents of bullying are not actually crimes, and therefore the best people to deal with them are parents, teachers or other responsible adults.

Police need to become involved in incidents of bullying when there is any:

- violence involved
- theft
- harassment and intimidation over a period of time
- anything involving hate crimes

Further advice and support about bullying and cyber bullying.

More information

The logo for internet matters.org, featuring the text "internet" in a white, lowercase, sans-serif font above "matters.org" in a larger, white, lowercase, sans-serif font. The background is a solid green rectangle.

Information and advice about cyberbullying.

More information

We know it's hard to understand what's going on at the moment. Every daily routine you are used to has changed. School is now online, you can't meet up with your friends, you can't go out to parties, it's tough, and you are perfectly entitled to feel hard done by.

If you are struggling with anxiety, or feeling worried about the situation, it is so important you talk to your parents, teachers or someone you trust.

Don't keep it to yourself.

What do I need to do to help stop the spread of COVID-19?

We all have a responsibility to do our part in the fight against COVID-19. You can help by:

- always wearing a face covering when you are in shops (if you are 11yrs of age and over)
- staying at home as much as possible – you can leave your home to exercise locally
- limiting contact with other people you don't live with – when you are out exercising you can meet with people in your household's support bubble or with a maximum of ONE other person from outside of your household. If you do this you should stay at least 2mtrs apart
- washing your hands regularly – if you can't wash your hands make sure you use hand gel

More information